Samuel Kennett who was so severely injured in a runaway some time ago, returned from the hospital at Quincy yesterday somewhat improved but very weak. He was compelled to submit to an operation which resulted in the removal of one of his kidneys. It is to be hoped Mr. Kennett will speedily recover.

Boost for Clark.

Washington, D. C.

April 19, 1912.

To Missouri Democrats:—

Speaker Champ Clark is now conceded to be the leading candidate for the Democratic nomination for President. If his Missouri friends will render him prompt assistance he will win the nomination and be elected.

County conventions for the election will be held in Texas during the next few weeks.

Many readers of this paper have influential friends residing in Texas.

A letter at once to such friends requesting active support of Mr. Clark will accomplish much good.

All Missourians are deeply interested. Won't you write your friends in Texas without delay?

Very respectfully,

W. W. RUCKER.

Died in the Harness.

Frederick J. Waldo, the veteran editor of the Rising Sun, Indiana, Recorder died April 12, 1912. Deceased was born in 1831. In early life his father died and the future editor was thrown on his own resources. He made good. He held several appointive federal offices but newspaper work was more to his liking and always went back to the newspaper work. He was a highly honored citizen and did all in his power for the upbuilding of humanity. His good works will live after him.

P. O. Hours.

The general delivery and stamp window also Rural Route delivery will be opened to patrons on Sundays and legal holidays for one hour only, from 11:45 to 12:45. The same will take effect next Sunday, April 28th.

Stoutsville has organized a Commercial Club and proposes to put Stoutsville on the map good and proper. The By Laws wisely provide that all citizens of Stoutsville and vicinity may become members. The farmer and laboring man are as much interested in building up a town as are the merchants and it is as much their duty and privilege to help push the town and vicinity forward. May success be with the Stoutsville Commercial Club.

Of the gubernatorial candidates in the Democratic field the most active campaigner up-to-date is James A. Houchin who is speaking every day to large crowds. His request for support is made to the business man and farmer. Politicians are not considered by Houchin in making his plea for a business administration of state affairs. He favors reducing taxes.

Change of Business.

H. B. Mudd has sold his business house and saloon in this city to a Mr. Hedding, of Novinger, this state.

The transfer will take place Aug. 5th when Mr. Mudd will retire from the saloon business. Mr. Mudd has been identified with the saloon business in this city for nearly 20 years and has been fairly successful.

J. R. B. Kidd is the city dairyman and wants to supply you with milk. Then if you have anything to sell at auction be sure to get Col. Kidd for your auctioneer.

Nick Griffith was transacting business in Quincy Wednesday.

Holy Rosary School.

Holy Rosary School of this city is fast coming to the front as an educational institution. The thorough work and careful training along all lines is responsible. The boy or girl who is educated at Holy Rosary School is well fitted to go out and fight life's battles. This year four will graduate from this school. They are: Ernest Bernard Hagan, Misses Elizabeth Anne Seward, Mary Leola Hagan, Mary Oneta Losson.

A road meeting will be held at the Hassard school house Friday at 7:30 p. m. Every citizen of the neighborhood is urged to be present as important business in connection with the cross state highway will be discussed. Don't forget it.

FOR PRESIDENT

CHAMP CLARK.

The Dog Came Back.

About March 1st Oscar Reaklenwalt moved from Lilly, Illinois, which is near Chicago, to the neighborhood of Hazzard about 5 miles east of this city.

Mr. Reaklenwalt shipped his goods in a freight car and among his belongings were two dogs, a shepherd and a collie. A few days after his arrival one of the dogs, the shepherd, left his new home and in about a week arrived at his old home in Illinois.

Something like a week after the departure of the first dog the collie became home sick and cleared out but for some cause after wandering about several days came back apparently satisfied to remain.

Later, the dog back in Illinois, possibly on account of his recent experiences in traveling, took to the road again and hasn't been seen since. It is supposed the dog has attained the roving habit and concluding that Missouri was so much better place than Illinois decided to return and Mr. Reaklenwalt looks for him to arrive most any day.

The strange feature of the case is how this dog ever found his way back to his old home. The distance is nearly three hundred miles and in shipping to Missouri the dogs were tied in the end of a box car and it was impossible for them to enjoy the scenery along the route. Owing to their position in the car the dogs could certainly not distinguish directions or know but little of the country over which they traveled; and it would be interesting to know by what manner of instinct or knowledge the dog was guided to his old home.

Many stories were related by the early settlers of Missouri of the wonderful feats performed by dogs which went back to Kentucky and other distant points, but in those cases the dogs were moved overland which would make it easier to retrace their steps. The sagacity of the dog is well known and it is a fact that he becomes homesick the same as a human being, but what is the mysterious instinct that guides him back to his native heath?

Smiths house burned to the ground today. No insurance. Moral, see Huebsch before it is too late and have him issue you a policy.

GOOD ROADS

Cross-State Highway Propositions Must be Submitted By May 1—Solid Rock Roads Cheapest.

All interested in getting in the Hannibal St. Joseph Cross State Highway should submit their propositions by the first of May. The time for action is now. Good roads benefit the man in town and the people on the farms. No people can afford bad roads. They are expensive to everybody. Good solid rock roads should lead in all directions from Monroe City.

Ismay.

Men felt their vessel sinking into the icy wave, and calmly and unshrinking they gazed upon their grave; no coward cries of panic the winds of midnight bore from out the doomed Titanic—and Ismay came ashore. The peasant, rude and lowly, sank fearless in the foam repeating prayers holy, his eyes toward his home; the Croesus died serenely and sank to ocean's floor, and no one perished meanly—but Ismay came ashore. Men faced their doom as Stoic faced death in days of old; oh, human souls heroic oh, hearts of tested gold! The wild dark waves forever your requiem will roar! Your fame will perish never—and Ismay came ashore. The bride and groom were parted, the parent died alone, and children broken-hearted, can only mourn and moan, and dream about the faces, the smiles they'll see no more in old familiar places—and Ismay came ashore. Ah, ne'er was such a story on poet's pages placed, the triumph and the glory of manhood undebased! Of manhood strong and tender, of hearts of virgin ore, of death when death is splendor and Ismay came ashore!

WALT MASON.

A Great Loss of Life.

Friday morning the Carpathia steamed into New York harbor bearing 705 survivors of the Titanic which on the Sunday night before struck an iceberg off New Foundland and received damages which sent the ocean giant to the bottom of the sea, causing the death of 1601 persons.

From newspaper reports and reports from the investigation being held at Washington it appears that some one has made a big blunder. Certainly the scene was a heart-rendering one as the wife and children were placed in life boats while the husband and father was left on the sinking Titanic to meet a watery grave.

The owners of the steamship had provided for all the luxuries and all would have been well had there been no accident. But not enough life boats were on the ship consequently there was a great loss of life. Then again it appears that not enough caution was used in going through the ice field.

Congress is making a thorough investigation and more stringent navigation laws will be made and enforced.

George T. Ridings came in Monday from Los Angeles, Calif., where he has been since early in December visiting his son Thomas and family. He reports Thomas and family getting along nicely. Mr. Ridings is looking quite well.
